

19 November 2024

The turnaround was not only the largest we have delivered to date in terms of as worked and

Price volatility in some commodities over the past year led to reduced production, cessation of some operations, and the deferral of capital spend, particularly in nickel and lithium. Despite this, the level of mining and mineral processing development in the energy transition metals sector is projected to remain high over the long-

